Transforming Pharmacy For You and Your Patients

RxAlly's Performance Network of independent pharmacies, regional chains, and Walgreens is united in our mission to improve patient health through personalized pharmacist care while reducing costs. By advancing the role of pharmacists, RxAlly is facilitating new solutions as it leads an innovative approach to health care that aligns the interests of patients, pharmacists and payers.

At RxAlly, we believe that personalized pharmacist care can lead to better health outcomes. That's great for the patient, but it's also hugely gratifying for the pharmacist. You are a pivotal player in the health of patients, particularly those facing chronic illnesses and taking multiple medications.

RxAlly offers you the opportunity to

- Enhance your role as a health care provider for your patients
- Access market opportunities through a national performance network
- Participate in clinical services programs that will build your business and benefit your patients
- Expand into new patient care niches
- Be compensated for an array of professional services beyond dispensing medications
- Be on the cutting edge in transforming pharmacy practice in the United States

RxAlly has brought together the nation's leading independent pharmacy organizations, regional chains and Walgreens, to form a performance network of community pharmacies nationwide. We aim to improve patient health through enhanced pharmacist care that combines clinical research, evidence-based clinical services and a common technology platform.

With our more than 20,000-member network, RxAlly advances the role of community pharmacists. RxAlly pharmacists are an integral part of the health care system, delivering a range of patient-centric services necessary to assure cost-effective delivery and appropriate use of medicines, which can lead to better, more efficient health care nationwide.

RxAlly will be a revolutionary advance in pharmacist care designed to improve health and lower costs.

Personalized Pharmacist Care

Guiding Principles

Alignment: Health care delivery must align the interests of patient, pharmacist and payer.

Performance: RxAlly will measure the effects of the products and services we bring to market, both on overall health and dollars saved.

Personalized Care: Face to face interaction with patients in the delivery of health care is at the core of positive health outcomes.

There is already enormous evidence that proper use of medications leads to reduced health care costs and improved health outcomes. RxAlly will optimize the role of the pharmacist as a member of the health care team to achieve both of these vital goals.

What will truly differentiate RxAlly? Nationwide scale. A common technology platform. A network-wide, systematic approach to personalized pharmacist care.

Central to personalized care is the relationship between a patient and you, their pharmacist. Patients see their pharmacists 12 to 14 times per year – more than any other health practitioner. You are among the most accessible health care providers and are at a key intersection in health care to assist in coordination of care. This gives you the unique opportunity to assume a much more meaningful role in people's health care. RxAlly will equip you to bring together the best of personalized care with innovative new technologies, products and services.

Pharmacists in the RxAlly Performance Network will take on a greater role in coaching and customizing care to meet the needs of every individual patient:

- Coordination of refills
- Reconciliation of medications – both prescription and over the counter
- Flu shots and other adult and adolescent immunizations
- Medication adherence
- Prevention and wellness education
- Chronic disease management
- Specialty medications
- Direct-to-consumer programs

Enrollment

Just go to the pharmacists section of RxAlly.com and you will see information on enrollment. We will ask you to provide us some information to facilitate easy, ongoing communications with you. If you are a member of a participating RxAlly independent pharmacy organization (group), you will be able to select that entity. Your next step is to review the network agreement and click to accept the terms.

If you are not affiliated with one of the current groups, register your pharmacy anyway. RxAlly will get back to you shortly. Your current pharmacy group may be in the process of affiliating with the RxAlly Performance Network.
